

Immediate need for a R&D and Product Manager

ChemoTech is a Swedish life science company, developing innovations in cancer therapies. ChemoTech is public listed company on Nasdaq First North.

By being devoted to clinical development and scientific excellence, ChemoTech aspires to be a force for better cancer care. Our aim is to always deliver cost and treatment efficient technologies that improve the quality of live to those suffering from cancer and their love ones.

As ChemoTech's R&D portfolio expands, we are now offering a very challenging position as R&D and Product Manager to the right candidate.

Location: Sweden at our HQ Down Town Malmö just 5 min walk from the Central train station.

A successfully candidate should have:

- Excellent social skills
- Science or Engineering Degree in, Biology, Medicine, Physics or Electronics
- Minimum five years experiences from R&D work involving electronic equipment in life science
- Qualified experience from CE-Marking process and ISO Certifications
- Successfully managed EMC testing and certification in a EMC Lab
- Minimum five years of project management within prototype production and industrialization
- Experience from the life science industry is mandatory
- Understanding of software developments is a plus
- Fluent in Swedish and English
- Willing to travel 10 to 20 %

What ChemoTech offers:

- Being part of fast growing start-up with a promising R&D portfolio
- Multinational working environment
- Member of a small international team
- Great career opportunities

Send your application to:

hr@chemotech.se at the latest 18 of September 2017

With kind regards,

Mohan Frick, CEO